Summary of IRS Regulations on Periodic Distributions

Contributions made before July 1, 1983 and payments made to purchase service that have already been taxed and are therefore non-taxable when distributed from your account are not eligible for a Direct Rollover. Contributions since July 1, 1983 and total interest earned have been taxed deferred and are taxable when distributed. The taxable balance is eligible for a rollover and all or any portion of your account balance can be taken as a direct refund or as a direct rollover. A rollover is a tax-free transfer of an eligible distribution from one qualified employer retirement plan directly to another qualified plan or to an Individual Retirement Arrangement (IRA).

If you choose a direct refund: Tax deferred contributions and accumulated interest credited to your account are taxed upon withdrawal. The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) requires NMERB to withhold 20% from your refund if you do not rollover the funds to a qualified retirement plan or IRA. In addition, the IRS imposes a special penalty tax on early distributions, such as a lump sum distribution, received before the plan participant reaches age 59½. This special penalty tax of 10% of the taxable portion of the distribution is applied in addition to the regular income tax.

If you choose a direct rollover: The taxable balance of your contributions and interest are not taxed in the current year and no income tax is withheld. Your refund will be made directly to the IRA or qualified plan you identify on your refund application. Your refund will be taxable when you take it out of the IRA or qualified plan. You may select to rollover any portion (percentage) of your taxable balance. The portion of the taxable balance you receive as direct refund will be taxed in the year in which you receive payment.

The federal income tax withholding rate of 20% applies to eligible distributions made from a qualified retirement plan, such as NMERB. This tax shall be withheld on any eligible distribution made to a member, the member's surviving spouse or to an alternate payee if it is not rolled over directly into another qualified plan or IRA.
